Speaker: Marc spent five years as a Councillor on the City of Lincoln Council and took an active interest in equalities, diversity, standards, audit, planning, culture, tourism and finance. After completing his time on the City Council, Marc was elected to Lincolnshire County Council where he took on the role of Executive Councillor for Finance and Property, overseeing a budget of £1.2b along with a property portfolio which included 127 farms covering 20,000 acres of Lincolnshire. Marc has a range of experience including having run a successful business assisting those in need to find quality accommodation, as well as various employed roles predominantly including contact with the public. Since becoming Police and Crime Commissioner for Lincolnshire in May 2016 Marc has become passionate about developing effective partnership working, improving the service journey for victims and survivors, transforming mental health provision in relation to criminal justice and tackling the exploitation and abuse of children and vulnerable people.
